The Topic:

Employment Related Practices for the Construction Employer: This program will highlight the top five lessons learned from the legal decisions that were issued and the laws that were passed in 2007 and provide a handy checklist on what construction employers should do in 2008. The program will cover key topics including multi-employer work sites, new leave laws, changes in the anti-discrimination laws, wage issues and essential training programs.

The Speaker's Resume:

Tim O'Brien is a partner in the firm of Libby O'Brien Kingsley, LLC and concentrates his practice in the area of employment counseling and litigation. He has represented management on a variety of labor and employment issues including wrongful termination and discrimination claims. Mr. O'Brien also advises employers on wage and hour, health and safety, and labor law/union issues and assists employers as they prepare for and undergo audits and investigations by regulatory agencies such as OSHA and the Department of Labor. He can be reached at tbrien@lokllc.com and by telephone at 207-985-1815.
